Nearly two dozen busted in gun-trafficking sting

More than 70 firearms, hundreds of rounds of ammo seized ◗ Officials say guns are sold drive-through style

Twenty-two people were charged in 11 separate indictments Thursday in one of the largest illegal gun-trafficking investigations by local and federal law enforcement officials.

Authorities allegedly seized more than 70 firearms, including sawed-off shotguns and military-style semiautomatic rifles, and hundreds of rounds of ammunition, which they claim were sold from several homes and storage facilities in the city's Kensington section. The indictments allege that some of the purchases took place out in the open almost like a drive-through.

The investigation, which centered on the city's Eastern police division, was conducted by the Violent Crime Reduction Partnership — an effort between local and federal law enforcement that began on June 4. It involved extensive surveillance and numerous purchases by undercover officers.

Number of people charged in 11 separate indictments Thursday, in what authorities say is one of the largest gun busts in Philadelphia

Officials said the bust will help put a dent in the violent crime plaguing the city.

"To bring in extra personnel — the federal government — and use the federal system to have increased penalties is an enormous amount of help in the city," said Deputy Police Commissioner William Blackburn. "When you have an excess of 70 guns, and have the number of defendants who were arrested [Thursday], the possibility of serving long prison sentences is obviously going to help us and help the neighbors in that community."

According to one 45-count indictment, the epicenter of the illegal sales was the home of Luis Ramos at 2066 East Atlantic Street. On at least 15 separate occasions, a buyer pulled up in front of Ramos' house or another location and the gun was brought to the buyer's car window.

Some of the defendants were under investigation dating back to September 2010, but officials ramped up the investigation in the last two months.

Of the 22 defendants, 15 were arrested in Philadelphia on Thursday, one was arrested in South Carolina, another surrendered and five were already in custody, according to U.S. Attorney Zane Memeger.

Dead man's parents sue estate of former 'Jackass' star

CHESTER COUNTY. The parents of Zachary Hartwell, a passenger killed when former "Jackass" star Ryan Dunn drove off the road last June, are suing Dunn's estate and the bar where the two men were allegedly drinking before the crash.

The suit alleges that Barnaby's West Chester served Dunn even though he was visibly intoxicated and that the bar's negligence, combined with Dunn's "intoxicated state" and reckless driving led to the crash that killed both Dunn and Hartwell.

Hartwell's parents are seeking punitive and compensatory wrongful death damages, including reimbursement for his funeral expenses, medical services and supplies, for the "anxiety, pre-impact fright, fear, pain and suffering" Hartwell experienced prior to his death.

Pa. man to be executed in October

PHILADELPHIA. Gov. Tom Corbett signed an execution warrant Thursday for Terrance Williams, convicted in 1986 of first-degree murder, robbery and conspiracy for the beating death of Amos Norwood.

In 1984, Williams led Norwood, an acquaintance, to a cemetery where he beat him with a tire iron and socket wrench, stole his valuables and his car. He later returned and burned Norwoods' body. The lethal injection is scheduled for Oct. 3.

Victim search continues in warehouse collapse

A 38,000-square-foot vacant warehouse in Kensington came crashing down Wednesday, causing the evacuation of three homes and bringing to light yet another story of a delinquent landlord wreaking havoc on the city.

A fire department official on the scene of the collapse Thursday said that cleanup was suspended until a gas leak on the site was repaired.

He also said the department has received "conflicting reports" as to whether there was anyone inside the building when it crumbled, and workers will be sorting through the rubble looking for bodies.

The warehouse on East Madison Street had already been court ordered to sheriff's sale three times, with the most recent sale date set for March 21. Licenses and Inspections also declared the warehouse "structurally unsafe" on July 25 and was in the process of taking property owner Refurbish It, Inc. to equity court.

Refurbish It owes more than $33,000 in back taxes on the collapsed property.

Prescription pot sign-ups start in NJ

NEW JERSEY. For the first time Thursday, residents began signing up for New Jersey's medical marijuana program.

The program is available to those with one of a dozen debilitating medical conditions, including multiple sclerosis, terminal cancer and glaucoma who have been authorized by a doctor registered with the program.

Patients need to submit a photo, proof of residency and government-issued identification, along with a registration number from their physician.

The state's first legal dispensary is growing its initial crop and expects to open sometime in September. New Jersey, which approved the law in 2010, is among 17 states and the District of Columbia to allow medical marijuana. METRO/SDL

'Gun Crisis' unites reporters, residents

- Anti-violence group of Philly journalists first met last week with City Council members at City Hall
- This week, community members chimed in on debate over stemming mayhem with new organization

▶ Ramsey has pushed for community help.

Newly formed anti-violence journalism project Gun Crisis News met at City Hall earlier this week for the second time in two weeks, this time for a discussion with community members about how citizens and reporters can better communicate.

Director of the Strawberry Mansion Neighborhood Action Center Lenora Jackson-Evans said violence occurs with such frequency in certain areas that it often has a numbing effect on the media and public. But the same frequency of violence has overwhelmed Evans' neighborhood, which experiences each loss as a whole, resulting in a deep pain she said is difficult for others to understand. "When people get killed in a close-knit neighborhood, everyone is affected," she said. "I'm tired of marches. I'm tired of vigils. This is a community where everyone is hurting when one child is killed."

Co-founder and executive director of X-Offenders for Community Empowerment Wayne Jacobs said that he wishes the media would focus more on illegal gun transfers often used in crimes rather than on the perpetrators and victims. He said until the tide of illegal guns is stopped, communities will be unable to focus on little else.

"When you come home and find your house flooded, what's the first thing you do?" he said. "You don't call the government. You turn off the tap that brings in water from the street. Then you do your first assessment and call. Gun violence is like a flood running through a house. If we begin to stop the flood, people can feel that they can start to concentrate on other things. But right now, we're being flooded with these guns."

In wake of abortion funding debate, Komen founder steps down as CEO

AUSTIN, TEXAS. Susan G. Komen for the Cure founder Nancy G. Brinker plans to leave her CEO position as part of a leadership change but will stay on in a management role at the charity, which was embroiled in an abortion-related funding controversy earlier this year.

Komen, in announcing the move on Wednesday, also said that President Liz Thompson would leave the Dallas-based organization in September and board members Brenda Lauderback and Linda Law would step down. REUTERS

Online virus can spy on financial transactions

BOSTON. A new cyber surveillance virus has been found in the Middle East that can spy on financial transactions, email and social networking activity, according to a leading computer security firm, Kaspersky Lab.

Dubbed Gauss, the virus may also be capable of attacking critical infrastructure and was built in the same laboratories as Stuxnet, the computer worm widely believed to have been used by the United States and Israel to attack Iran's nuclear program, Kaspersky Lab said on Thursday. REUTERS

Women still favor Obama, but moms are less convinced

CRAIG MITCHELL/DYER/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Among the women in the Reuters/Ipsos poll, the most pessimistic were stay-at-home and unemployed moms: 61 percent said the country was on the wrong track.

Sarah Formato cuddled the whining 3-year-old on her lap and cast her thoughts back to 2008, when she had voted for Barack Obama.

Today, Formato's enthusiasm has waned. "He hasn't changed anything," she complained.

Nonetheless, she added with a shrug, "I would give him another shot."

"Politicians are in the pockets of big companies," she said. "Obama understood the problem. He wasn't going for that."
SARAH FORMATO

The president's fierce struggle for re-election hinges in part on women such as Formato, whose support has turned lukewarm. The 31-year-old stay-at-home mom lives in a swing district in a swing state — the sprawling suburbs of Arapahoe County, southeast of Denver.

Few doubt that Obama will win a majority of female votes nationwide, as he did in 2008. The question is whether he will capture enough of them in key states to offset a comparative lack of enthusiasm among men. And the cracks in his support among women appear to depend on whether they have children or not. REUTERS

Poll

According to a national Reuters/Ipsos poll of 25- to 45-year-olds, mothers tend to differ from women without children on issues ranging from the economy, taxes and military spending to healthcare and birth control — as well as on presidential candidates.

FRED BEANS REPEATS HISTORIC USED CAR SALE

Doylestown, PA – Fred Beans, CEO and Founder of the Fred Beans Automotive Group located in Doylestown PA, has announced a ONE DAY SALE on Saturday, August 11th at 9:00 AM, where pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. This sale is being held due to overwhelming public demand.

Cars will be clearly marked, so come early for the best selection. This is a ONE DAY ONLY sale designed to get the local community driving again.

Fred Beans' pre-owned inventory levels need to be reduced to make room for shipments of new models arriving daily. As a result, all 7 Fred Beans Doylestown locations are selling these overstocked pre-owned vehicles to the public at drastic discounts in an attempt to clear excess inventory.

In addition to this huge variety of pre-owned vehicles, the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships in Doylestown features new Ford, Lincoln, Mitsubishi, Dodge, Chrysler, Jeep, Hyundai, Nissan, Subaru, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Buick, GMC, and Saab vehicles.

Fred Beans believes reviving the economy starts at home, and changing things locally will lead to changing things nationally.

In addition to the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships' extra inventory, additional vehicles have been acquired at incredible prices from various banks, repossession companies, auto auctions, credit unions, lease companies, and rental companies for this sale.

The sale will make pre-owned vehicles available for as low as $999, prices not normally offered to the general public. According to Fred Beans, "We want to give our customers a reason to believe in the local economy again. Someone has to look out for their best interests."

Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM to inspect the entire inventory and find the car that is right for them. Every vehicle will be cleaned, detailed, and fully prepared for instant delivery. On the evening of August 10th after close of business, Mr. Beans and his team will mark the special sale price on each and every vehicle.

Because Fred Beans' customers are feeling the credit crunch right now, the Fred Beans Automotive Group has given the dealerships' financing managers the resources necessary to get most customers' credit approved on the spot.

The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships has $10,000,000 in lending power, the result of over 50 years of strong relationships with the area's leading lenders. This means that customers with "less than perfect" credit history can have their credit approved and drive a quality pre-owned car, truck, or SUV home by lunchtime on Saturday.

Even if a customer's credit report shows a bankruptcy, divorce, tax lien, slow payment history, missed payment, or repossession, or if a customer is a first time buyer, Fred Beans may get them approved.

This special ONE DAY ONLY sale will be held at all 7 Fred Beans Doylestown locations this Saturday, August 11th, at 9:00AM.

Pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM for the start of inspection. Incredible sale prices, starting as low as $999, will be posted no later than 8:00AM. All vehicles will be sold on a first come, first serve basis. The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships is expecting a high volume of customers for this sale, so be sure to reserve your spot early.

Customers wishing to trade in a vehicle are asked to bring their title or payment book for immediate delivery. Fred Beans will even pay off your trade-in in full, no matter how much you still owe on it.

Most of these surplus pre-owned vehicles will get sent directly to auto auctions for liquidation. So, if anyone has been thinking about purchasing a good, clean, dependable pre-owned car, truck, van or sport utility vehicle, do not miss this special ONE DAY ONLY sale.

Courtesy transportation available from all local airports, train stations and bus depots.

The politics of comedy

The comedy of politics

Will Ferrell and Zach Galifianakis are hilarious in 'The Campaign' But they're ready to be serious about the problems with the political system that they're satirizing

When you put two of the funniest people alive in one movie, you get one really funny movie. But said funny people seem to have some serious intentions behind the scenes.

In "The Campaign," Will Ferrell and Zach Galifianakis play two candidates in a heated race for a congressional seat in the South. Their district is laughably small, but there are larger, sinister forces pulling the strings — and everybody plays dirty! But beneath the jokes about taking school assignments the candidates wrote in grade school and holding them up to the microscope, there is a dark truth they're exposing.

Galifianakis shares an anecdote about his uncle Nick, who was a Democratic congressman from 1967 to 1973.

"He ran for Senate against Jesse Helms in North Carolina," says Galifianakis. "That race is actually studied in political science classes because it was one of the first of the really heavy modern mudslinging [races]. ... Jesse Helms was losing in 1972 to my uncle, who had the same last name [as I and was] darkskinned. And the last two weeks of the election, Jesse Helms came up with a slogan that read 'Vote for Jesse: He's one of us' and that changed it. So I grew up listening to all this kind of stuff. I kind of drew on that a little bit, just having my uncle tell me stories and about the dirty politics of it all."

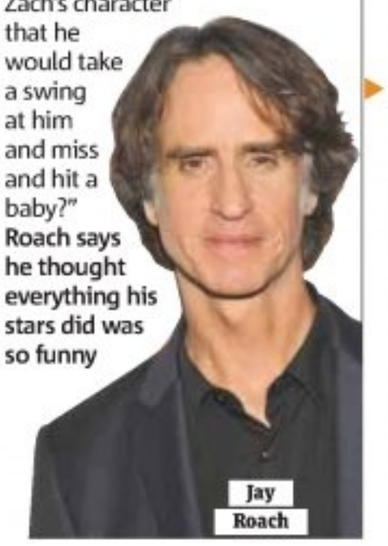
PAT HEALY
pat.healy@metro.us

Punching babies?

"The Campaign" director Jay Roach sat for a one-on-one with Metro to talk about art imitating life. Roach, who is probably best known for directing the Austin Powers movies, says he wasn't surprised that talk surrounding the film was so serious.

"People like to talk about politics more than you'd think," Roach says. "And I think it is because we do all sort of worry about it. It seems like the gap between what it could be and what it is is disconcerting to people."

But Roach is definitely eager to talk about the jokes in his movie: "We started saying, 'Let's just make the funniest movie we can with two of the most hilarious actors on the planet,'" he says. "What can we cook up for them? How far can it go? Can Will Ferrell's character get so annoyed by Zach's character that he would take a swing at him and miss and hit a baby?"



Jay Roach

Roach says he thought everything his stars did was so funny that he had a hard time chopping the film down to a suitable length. "I had a three-and-a-half hour cut a couple weeks into editing," he says. "I was honestly laughing for all of it and thinking, 'I've got to cut two hours of material?'"

Roach says that in the process of making the film, all parties did seem to have several moments of reflection on the political process. "We all love our country," he says. "Once in a while we would have these conversations on the set that were like, 'Wow, did you read about this that happened yesterday?' or 'Did you read about what that guy said?' To be able to be laughing while you're also kind of keeping up with current political situations is a great pleasure."

Wasting time

Strong hair, weak words

Ferrell says that for his character, the incumbent congressman who boasts of "strong hair," he studied John Edwards.

▶ "It was really fun kind of debating and giving speeches that literally — when you walked away and listened to them — they mean nothing," he says, almost incredulous about the politicians he studied. "It's really fun to spend as much time as you can talking about nothing and see how much time you'll waste."

Political thought

'Attracting the best people'

Galifianakis and Ferrell were affable and quick-witted while discussing their latest comedy. But there was a seriousness that almost swept the hilarity of the film under the rug.

▶ "Comedy is a great tool to point things out satirically," said Ferrell. "One of the things that we're trying to point out a little bit is that the system is getting so insane [you begin to wonder]: 'Is it attracting the best people to run for office?'"

Matthew McConaughey gets into the mind-set of a killer

The Texas native admits he was initially disgusted by the script for his latest — William Friedkin's 'Killer Joe'

When Matthew McConaughey first read the script for his newest film, "Killer Joe," he had a very immediate — and very negative — reaction. "My first read, I was disgusted. I remember throwing it in the trash and going to take a shower and wishing I had a steel brush," the actor admits. "And then I have some people that I work with whose opinion I really appreciate, and they had read it at the same time and I talked to them that afternoon, and they were in love with it."

While McConaughey admits he didn't see what they saw, he was persuaded to give the script — based on a play by Tracy Letts — another shot. "They were laughing at the humor, and I was like, 'I don't get what's funny,'" he remembers. "I gave it two days and let it get out of my system, and I read it again and found myself sort of chuckling, and I had a few laughs, then I started really to see the hilarity in it. And then I met with [director William Friedkin] for an hour. He was so precise about what he wanted to do with it, what the tone of it was — that's when I got in and went to work on it."

McConaughey stars as the Joe of the title, a calculating Dallas homicide detective who moonlights as a hired killer. The challenge for McConaughey was finding the humanity in such a frosty menace. "He is about structure, he is about order. If he doesn't have that, he's out of whack and he either dismisses himself from the situation or handles it in a street justice way," McConaughey says. "His sense of discipline is, most people would say, a little askew."

The climax of the film involves a very disturbing use of fried chicken — a scene that's easily the most talked-about among audiences after a screening, with many worried they've lost their appetite for the food altogether. So has taking part in the pivotal scene changed McConaughey's appetite? "I'm more of a fan now," he says with a glint in his eye. "Why didn't Kentucky Fried Chicken come to us and say, 'Let's piggyback on this whole promotional tour'? Would that be bad for business?"

LD ENTERTAINMENT

▶ It took Matthew McConaughey a while to come around to playing this dastardly character. But luckily for the rest of us, this NC-17 film is in theaters now.

Everything's scarier in Texas

"Killer Joe" is yet another project for Matthew McConaughey set in his native Texas — and not necessarily one that paints the best picture of the state. So why does Texas and the South in general continue to be such fertile ground for thrillers, horror movies and tales of the worst parts of human nature? "On a very basic level, you've got fear like from 'The Shining,' which is, 'Yell as loud as you want, no one's going to hear you,'" the actor explains.

"In the South, there's more room. Trailer parks are inhabited, but when you hear domestic violence next door in a trailer park, you don't go over there and go, 'Hey, what the hell is going on?' You mind your own business."

A smeared 'Campaign'

Will Ferrell and Zach Galifianakis face off as warring candidates for senate But this race is just as brutal to watch as that other big election

What we find funniest is often what we recognize as true. "The Campaign" — opening months before our next presidential election — has plenty of truth to it, but can those realities be funny when they are clear and present dangers? In this fictional senatorial campaign — where confident, womanizing incumbent Cam Brady (Ferrell) comes up against an innocent puppet of the evil Motch Corporation, Marty Huggins (Galifianakis) — there are references to all-powerful super PACs, religion wielded as a weapon to stir the masses and corporations buying votes. If it's all true, what can be funny about it?

Perhaps the reason why these realities feel so heavy in the film is because the humor fails to serve as enough of a distraction. With two of the biggest names in comedy teaming up, it seems like the filmmakers didn't feel the need to write a script. Instead, they rely on the improvisational skills of the leads to get them through — but the jokes only land 60 percent of the time. (One of our favorite barbs being: "You're such a turd that if you sat in sand, cats would try to cover you up.")

There's also a weak, paint-by-numbers plot resolution, which makes the whole thing feel a bit too easy.

While we're strong supporters of a Ferrell/Galifianakis ticket in the future, this year it doesn't get our vote.

'Hope Springs': A new 'Viagromedy'

If you go

'Hope Springs'
Director: David Frankel
Cast: Meryl Streep, Tommy Lee Jones
Rating: PG-13 Grade: B

SONY PICTURES PUBLICITY

▶ Movies like "Hope Springs," starring Meryl Streep and Tommy Lee Jones, could be ushering in a new Hollywood genre.

With this film and "The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel," which was released earlier in the year, there may be a new genre formulating in Hollywood. Let's name it the "Viagromedy." With a scant number of predecessors, these films seek to handle, with maturity and respect, the complex subject of sex during the retirement years. And as we have a growing number of aging baby-boomers in the general populace, it makes sense that this could be an ever-expanding genre.

Leads Meryl Streep and Tommy Lee Jones play a couple of empty-nesters. Their daily routine is a carefully choreographed dance that never falls out of step until Streep's character comes forward to demand more intimacy and affection from her stodgy husband. She pushes it to the point where they end up in a marriage counselor's office (Steve Carell, in his least funny role). The two are asked to try a number of experiments to grow closer together, up to and including heavy petting in public places.

For all the nervous laughter in our audience, there's an inescapable feeling that, for those under 40 and for those who have never been in a relationship that's lasted more than a few years, this movie is the motion-picture equivalent of catching your parents mid-coitus. As thorough, thoughtful, wise and inspiring this film will be for certain viewers, for many others, it's a bad memory we'll have to work very hard to forget.

Review

'The Bourne Legacy'

Director: Tony Gilroy
Cast: Jeremy Renner, Rachel Weisz, Edward Norton
Rating: PG-13
Grade: B

Why they didn't call this movie "Bourne Again," we'll never know. Jason Bourne may not make an appearance, but it feels like a movie we've seen before — the same shaky camera and frenetic action. The only thing that's changed is that while there's a fair amount of CIA superspy gobbledygook, it's surprisingly light on plot. For a movie about the deepest, darkest workings of secret government agencies, the story is really rather simple.

In the lead, Jeremy Renner is good, but Matt Damon was great. Renner's performance in "The Hurt Locker" was excellent, but does he have the stuff to carry a movie on his own? As operative Aaron Cross, he can run, jump and shoot with the best of them, but we were hoping for more charisma. When he's not in motion chasing after a bad guy or wrestling a wolf, he's kind of flat. We were more on side with him in the beginning when he plays Cross like a junkie who needs to score. After that he becomes a bland Bond wannabe.

TV watch list

'Animal Practice'

COMEDY. NBC is betting the farm — or at least its fall schedule — on "Animal Practice," a sitcom about an egotistical vet (Justin Kirk) who understands his patients better than other people. The comedy relies heavily on humor provided by its furry stars, most notably Crystal the Monkey, aka the "Hangover" monkey, aka the monkey that TV Guide reports makes $12,000 per "Animal Practice" episode. That's actually a good thing, because the jokes their human counterparts are asked to deliver have nothing on the one about the cat who'd rather jump out of a high-rise window than watch afternoon talk shows with its owner.
Preview, Sunday, 10:30 p.m., NBC

'Hell on Wheels'

DRAMA. How does railroad man Cullen Bohannon (Anson Mount) work through the still-simmering rage over his wife and son's murder now that he has a bounty on his head? "When he so clumsily kills the wrong man at the end of [last] season, I think he's to the point of just absolutely devil-may-care," Mount says. "'If the lord decides to take me now, or the devil, that's just fine with me.' He's absolutely gotten to that point, to the extent that I think at the beginning of the second season, he's actually quite delusional. As a matter of fact, it's kind of a soul-searching season."
Season premiere, Sunday, 9 p.m., AMC

Good Vibrations!

New Omazing™ Intimate Enhancement Ring Delivers Overwhelming Sensation Simultaneously To Both Partners!

- Powerful, reusable vibrating mechanism delivers intense waves of pleasure and lasts up to 80 minutes!
- Soft, comfortable ring fits all sizes!
- Can be used over and over again, for hours of pleasure!

"I haven't seen her this excited since our honeymoon!"

Although intimacy is usually a source of great pleasure, it can also be the cause of significant stress in a relationship. Even if you feel fulfilled in your love life, you may worry about your performance or your ability to satisfy your partner. Feelings of inadequacy can lead to problems in the "bedroom" which often translate to problems in relationships.

"It's difficult to describe a product that takes an act like sex and makes it 1000 times more exciting."
-Marc - San Antonio, TX

But what really counts is whether the sexual experience makes both you and your partner feel good. Omazing™ is enhancing the intimate lives of couples all over the world, making already pleasurable contact even more fulfilling! Guaranteed to provoke a more powerful arousal and climax for both you and your partner, Omazing™ intensifies intimate pleasure by strengthening the sexual response – and relationships!

How OMAZING™ Works

Developed for couples who want to explore the full potential of their sexual response, Omazing™ works by restricting the blood flow in the erect male member, increasing firmness and size while reducing sensitivity, for greater control over the onset of climax. The soft, comfortable, one-size-fits-all ring is also equipped with a powerful vibrating mechanism – a raised vibrating "tickler" designed to stimulate her most sensitive areas with intense waves of pleasure, for an incredible, powerful, MUTUAL climax – every time! Easy-to-replace batteries keep the reusable Omazing™ ready for action that lasts up to 80 minutes – then just change the batteries!

"The best thing about the Omazing Ring is that you find yourself and your wife rushing home!"
-Jim - Albany, NY

GUARANTEED results!

Omazing™ is the safest, most effective male enhancement option available today.

Our first-hand testimonials from satisfied couples speak for themselves, which is why we guarantee 100% satisfaction for both partners with every Omazing™ we sell, or your money back!

Weekend recipe

Easy peach cobbler

Cobbler recipes are often passed down through generations — and while many have the crust on the bottom with fruit on top, they also can have the exact opposite. This easy version is the latter: A flaky biscuit topping with fruit underneath.

▶ This summery recipe makes use of perfectly in-season peaches.

INGREDIENTS

For the filling:

- ¼ cup packed light brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon freshly squeezed lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon cornstarch
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract
- ⅛ teaspoon fine salt
- 2 pounds ripe but firm peaches (about 6 medium peaches), halved, pitted and cut into ½-inch-thick slices
- 2 tablespoons cold unsalted butter (¼ stick), cut into small pieces

For the biscuit topping:

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 4 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- 6 tablespoons cold unsalted butter (¾ stick), cut into small pieces
- ¼ cup buttermilk or plain whole-milk yogurt

INSTRUCTIONS

For the filling:

1 Heat the oven to 425°F and arrange a rack in the middle.

2 Place the brown sugar, lemon juice, cornstarch, vanilla and salt in a large bowl and whisk to combine. Add the peaches and stir until evenly coated.

3 Transfer the mixture to an 8-by-8 glass or ceramic baking dish. Arrange in an even layer and scatter the butter pieces over the top.

4 Bake until the peaches begin to soften and release their juices, after about 15 to 20 minutes. Meanwhile, make the topping.

For the biscuit topping:

1 Whisk together the flour, 3 tablespoons of the sugar, the baking powder and baking soda in a large bowl to combine. Add the butter and toss with your fingers until well-coated in the flour mixture. Using a pastry blender or two knives, cut the butter into the dry ingredients until reduced to pea-size pieces, about two to three minutes. Add the buttermilk or yogurt and stir until a soft, crumbly dough forms.

2 Divide the dough into nine equal portions. Form each portion into a 2-inch patty and place on a large plate. Cover with plastic wrap and set aside.

3 When the peaches are ready, remove the baking dish from the oven, stir to coat the peaches in the juices and arrange in an even layer again. Place the dough patties in a single layer on top. Sprinkle the remaining tablespoon of sugar evenly over the top of the cobbler.

4 Bake until the biscuits are golden brown and the filling is bubbling around the edges, about 15 minutes. Transfer to a wire rack and let cool for at least 20 minutes before serving.

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

A delayed 'X-Files' romance?

ALL PHOTOS FROM GETTY IMAGES

▶ Anderson and Duchovny look like casual friends at a regular old event. But we prefer to take them completely out of context (see right).

Earlier this week, Gillian Anderson parted ways with her longtime boyfriend and father of her two sons, Mark Griffiths. She's not exactly a till-death-do-we-part type of girl — she's previously married and divorced twice — but rumors are swirling that there are special circumstances to this split.

According to gossip blog Celebrity Dirty Laundry, the actress is dating her former "X-Files" co-star, the recently officially single David Duchovny. Sources tell the site they "have been in a serious relationship for some time now," and that Anderson and her children have already moved in with Duchovny in Los Angeles.

Before you "X-Files" fans get too excited, a word from Duchovny's rep: "It is not true," he says in a terse statement.

The thing is, we should probably believe him. But on behalf of all the Scully and Mulder goldfish couples out there, we're not giving up hope just yet.

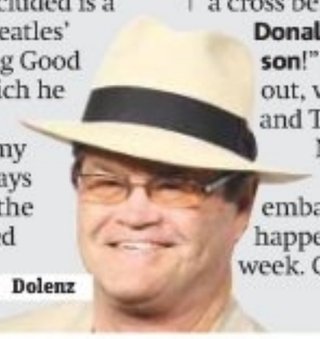
Talking points

'Morning' glory

Micky Dolenz, drummer and singer for The Monkees, is releasing a solo album in late September. Included is a cover of The Beatles' "Good Morning Good Morning," which he says is "burned into my neural path-ways forever" after the Fab Four played him an early version.



Dolenz

"One day, Paul [McCartney] invited me down to Abbey Road studios for a new album they were doing ['Sgt. Pepper']," he reminisces in a press release for his album. "I must have expected some kind of crazy love-festival Beatlemania event so I got dressed accordingly. I must have looked like a cross between Ronald McDonald and Charles Manson!" The guys, it turns out, were wearing jeans and T-shirts.

Nice try, Micky, but this is the least embarrassing thing to happen in The Word all week. Get on our level.

Everybody out of the pool

The more we hear from Olympians, the more we wish they'd do less talking and more sweating without their shirts on. Michael Phelps, go ahead and ruin those abs for us: "I think everybody pees in the pool," he tells the Wall Street Journal. "It's kind of a normal thing to do for swimmers. When we're in the water for two hours, we don't really get out to pee."

Return to sender, please

Think your inbox is overflowing with junk mail? This subject line popped up in ours yesterday: "In Touch Exclusive: Kim Kardashian Quits Her Birth Control!"

You know the deal — if we have to read about this stuff, so do you. Here's the short, merciful version: A "Kardashian insider" says that "Kim is ready to have babies and talks about it all the time," and has gone off the pill for the first time in 15 years.

Romney's stroke of (unethical) genius?

Mr. Romney is a genius, as it takes a wealthy genius to plan to give away big chunks of money for two years leading up to the most important election in four years, while convincing people like Mr. Lorenzo it's for more godly intentions that putting a down payment on the White House. Show me tax returns for more than those two years if I am wrong.

DANIEL JOHNSON, HOLMES, PA.

I'd be donating huge chunks of my income to charity and schools if I were running for president — just to show people I am rich enough to buy the White House, yet humble enough to care for the poor and lowly middle class (and worse yet, the poor and lowly poor). Based on not having more than two years of tax returns to go on, and his adamant refusal to issue additional tax returns, one can only imagine that two years ago, he started paying for — I mean thinking about — the Oval Office.

DANIEL JELKE, VIA E-MAIL

Yes, Andrea, there is a Mitt Romney

To reply to Andrea Owens' question, "Does Mr. Romney give back?": Mitt Romney was the unpaid governor of Massachusetts for four years, and he took no salary. He gave his entire inheritance from his father to charity. In 2011, he gave more than $4 million to charity — almost 19 percent of his income. In comparison, Barack Obama gave 1 percent and Joe Biden gave .0013 percent. In 2002, while Romney was Massachusetts governor, he eliminated a $1.5 billion deficit. Look it up before slinging mud.

LAWRENCE COLLERAN, VIA E-MAIL

Complaints just a bunch of hot air

So these "poor" summer interns have to live this summer without air conditioning. Here's a news flash: Many of us do as well. Air conditioning is not a right, and you can live very well with the tower fans that are pictured in the article or window fans. And if the wiring in the building won't support portable A/C units, those sneaking them in will be left with nowhere to live after they burn the building down.

LINDA J. TREPANIER, VIA E-MAIL

Not a New Age for gun violence

Obama says to search our souls over gun violence. Well I did, Mr. President, and my soul says that it didn't think I was electing a yoga instructor when it voted for you. And God bless my yoga instructors and soul searching, but they will not solve gun violence.

ELIZABETH LARSEN, VIA E-MAIL

The press reveals depths of ignorance

RE: "SOME WORDS BETTER LEFT UNPRINTED": As another Arab-American, I say you are taking Metro's printing out of context. That article quoted and noted how atrocious some racist Bostonian's comments on a right-wing news-casting Facebook page truly were, not using it as a term itself. And yes, they have also quoted other ignorant persons using the "N-word," because they're reporting news — it's their job.

Horoscope

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Be friendly and cordial to everybody, but avoid getting too deeply involved with any one person. Friendships are a bit fragile at present, and it won't take much to shatter a close bond.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. You're likely to have a tendency to promise one thing but do quite another. Take all your commitments very seriously, so you won't have to make both alibis and amends.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. If you're going to take any gambles, do so in areas that you're very familiar with. The odds might be outlandishly against you in murky or untested situations.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Have someone check your work if you have to perform a tedious mental assignment. The more facts and figures involved, the more chances there are to make mistakes.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Impatience could be your worst enemy if you're not careful. Don't allow yourself to get angry just because colleagues don't immediately go along with your plans.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Be extra mindful of your possessions or resources. If you leave valuables unguarded, it could easily tempt certain people who have sticky fingers to latch onto some of them.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Continuity of purpose is essential if you hope to achieve your objectives. Don't think you can accomplish your goals or target with a series of lucky shots.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Do not put on any airs and affectations, or boast about things you've never accomplished. Your creditability will be dashed if your story is checked out.

3 Reasons to raise your glass for Rum Week

RUM BAR

▶ There's nothing wrong with a rum cocktail, but consider sipping some straight for a change.

Philly is famous for its Beer Week at this point, but rum is still hiding under the cocktail umbrella. Adam Kanter, owner of Rittenhouse's Rum Bar, is hoping to change that with the inaugural Philly Rum Week, kicking off Tuesday.

Here's why we're toasting rum next week:

1 Rum deserves a closer look: It may be synonymous with punch bowls and beach bars, but rum cleans up pretty well, too. "Beer's come a long way, but people don't realize that rum's come a long way over the past 20 years, too," says Kanter. "People still think it's just a mixer — and it can be, but some of the nice rums out there are as nice to sip as a scotch."

2 There will be tiki time: On Thursday, Rum Bar is transforming into Duke's Surf Bar, a tiki-style pop-up featuring 20 cocktails. Order one from the sweet, sour, spicy or strong menus, but just don't ask what's in it — keeping with tiki bar traditions, the recipes are a secret. "Tiki bars started in the 1930s. Every bar had a mai tai, but every bar had a different mai tai — not even the bartenders knew the recipes," says Kanter.

3 We do, in fact, like pina coladas: Top-shelf tasting flights and secretive craft cocktails are great, but sometimes you just want a familiar fruity drink with a pretty garnish. On Aug. 18, stop by Rum Bar to celebrate the pina colada's 54th birthday. It's serving up three versions — original, berry and spiced banana — in kitschy hollowed-out pineapples.

If you go

The first annual Philly Rum Week runs August 14-18 at Rum Bar (2005 Walnut St.). For a full list of events, visit www.phillyrumweek.com.

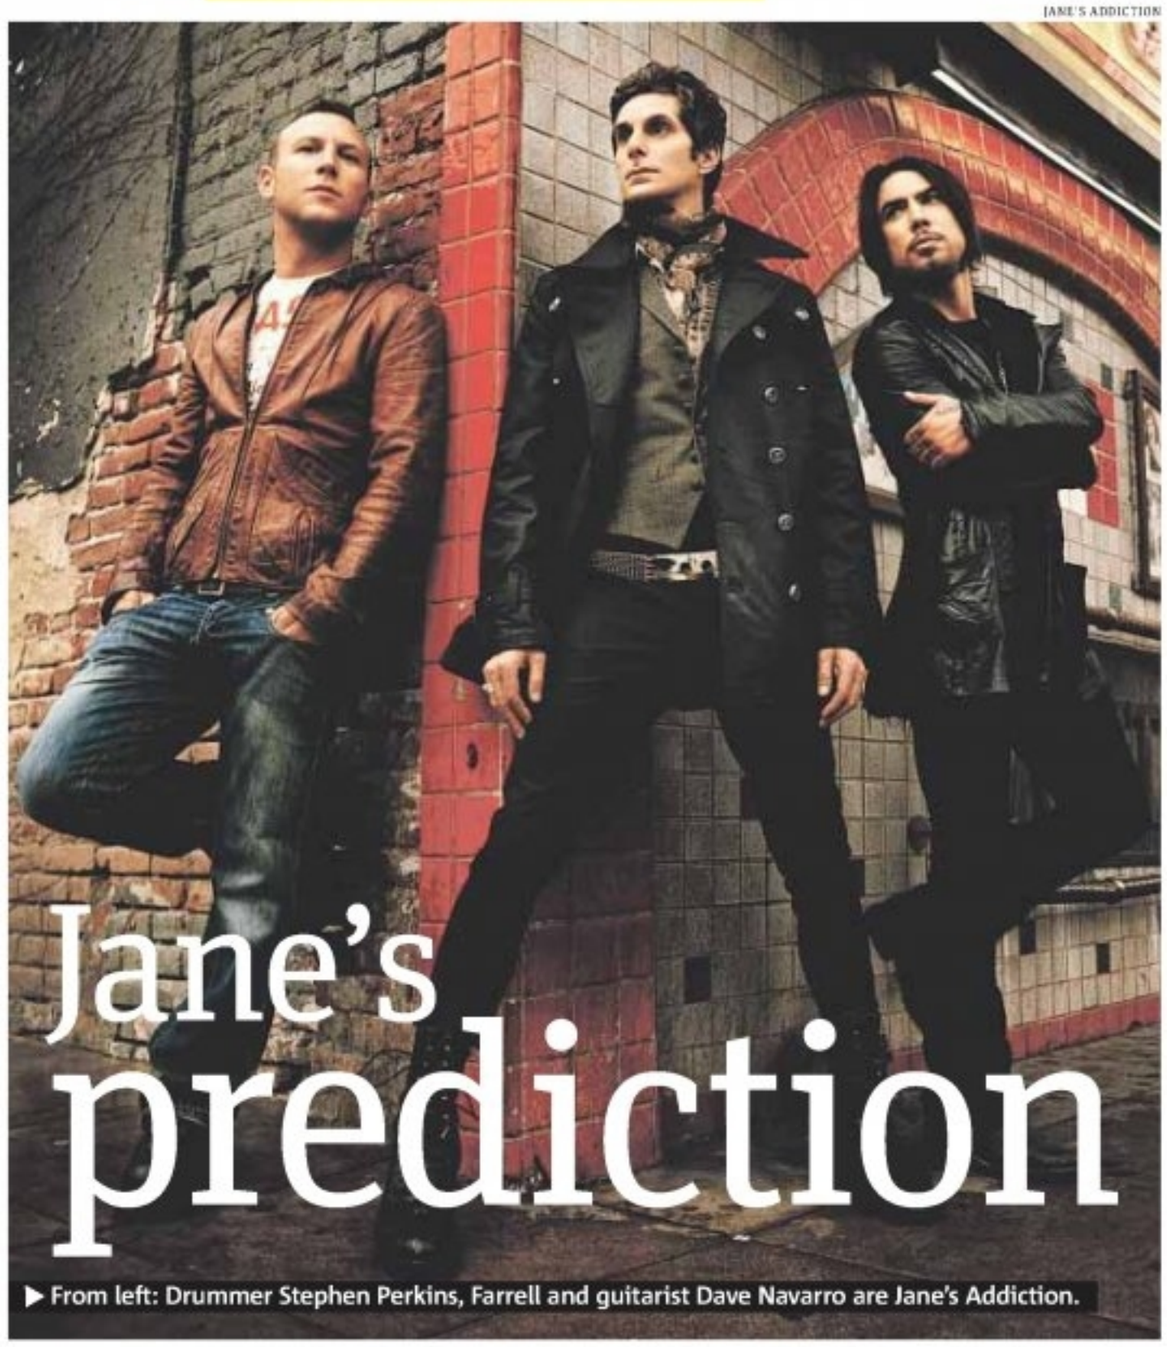
JANE'S ADDICTION



Jane's prediction

Perry Farrell talks about saying the right thing perfectly and how it makes all the difference in the world

Perry Farrell has being a rock star down. After all these years, the public face of being in a rock band is second nature to the Jane's Addiction frontman and Lollapalooza auteur.

"I learned something from Tim Leary," he confides, and we sit up prepared for something juicy from the psychedelic guru.

Not so — Leary, it seems, was all about the business.

"He told me that really what you're after is a sound byte," says Farrell.

We are?

"If you can have one sentence, a 30-second sound byte that sticks in people's minds, then you've done your job."

We have?

"That's what everyone is looking for, that's what the interviewer wants. So, when I speak to people it's almost like I'm writing poetry, like I'm writing a sound byte that will be memorable!"

Have we had ours, we wonder, as we're now halfway through the interview?

"I think we did something pretty remarkable, talking about the Walk of Fame and the RF chip," interjects Farrell.

He's right; earlier Farrell talked about Jane's Addiction's inclusion in the 2013 inductees to the Hollywood Walk of Fame. He has an on-trend interactive idea for Jane's star — and perhaps the future of the famous sidewalk stretch. "I'd like to put an RF [radio frequency] chip in our star, so that when people walk over our star they can hear music or see pictures on their phone. I've got to approach the board about it, but it would revolutionize the Walk of Fame."

Theatre of the Escapists

The third leg of the North American Theatre of the Escapists tour takes Jane's Addiction out of theaters and into bigger and often outdoor venues, such as their show at the Mann. "The plan was to tour the great theaters of America," says Farrell. "Along the way we got offers to do festivals and we took a couple of bigger gigs. Theaters are expensive to play with this full production, so this offsets some of the cost."

There are a ton of good reasons to take a little break from the booze — but a restaurant's offering of tasty, alcohol-free alternatives isn't usually one of them. Vernick Food & Drink, however, puts as much energy into its "mocktails" as it does its cocktails. The Rittenhouse newcomer is now serving up a full menu of house-made sodas and G-rated drinks, including a fizzy fresh ginger syrup and lime juice concoction and the Cucumber Smash, a sophisticated blend of muddled lemon, mint and cucumber water that's as pretty as any mojito.

Americans finish 1-2 in decathlon

Ashton Eaton can stake his claim to being the best athlete in the world.

That title, bestowed upon the Olympic winner in the decathlon, goes to an American for the second straight time. Brian Clay won in 2008 in Beijing.

And to make it just a little sweeter for the United States, his teammate Trey Hardee, the reigning world champion in the decathlon, took silver.

Eaton set the world record in the event at the U.S. trials and picked up where he left off. He finished first in the 100m, long jump and 400m.

Sweet Revenge

The U.S. women's soccer team had to wait 389 days for their rematch against World Cup winner Japan. They made their chance at revenge count in Thursday's gold medal match at Wembley Stadium in London.

Carli Lloyd, who also scored the game-winning goal for the United States in the gold medal match of the 2008 Olympics, had both scores as the U.S. won, 2-1.

"This is the dream that we've all been thinking about and feeling for the last year since the World Cup," said veteran forward Abby Wambach, who had been particularly vocal about wanting a chance for redemption in the months leading up to the Olympics.

It was Lloyd who swooped in front of Wambach on a cross from Alex Morgan to head the ball into the back of the net in the just the eighth minute of the final.

Lloyd did all the work herself on the goal that would prove to be the game-winner. She dribbled from midfield to just outside the box where she unleashed a line drive into the left corner of the net, just out of the reach of Japanese keeper Miho Fukumoto.

But it was Hope Solo, the oft controversial U.S. goalkeeper, who saved the game in the end. In the 83rd minute, with the United States holding that one goal lead, Solo charged Asuna Tanaka and stopped a 1-on-1 that would've tied the match.

Tune in

Three events this weekend:

- Men's basketball wraps up its tournament on Friday and Saturday with the U.S. still a huge favorite. They play at 4 p.m. ET against Argentina on Friday for a chance to face the winner of Spain and Russia. A Spain-USA rematch from Beijing has been highly anticipated.
- The men's and women's 4x100m relays begin with the women on Friday at 3:40 p.m. ET. The U.S. and Jamaica will be the heavy favorites to take the gold and silver. Same goes for the men's side (4 p.m., Saturday), where Jamaica has a chance to put together an epic run with Usain Bolt and Yohan Blake.
- The London Olympics close out on Sunday afternoon — though you'll have to wait until 7 p.m. on NBC — with the Closing Ceremony. The Spice Girls are reportedly headlining.

Lee wants to stay, but should he?

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Lee is 2-6 with a 3.73 ERA this season. The lefty is slated to pitch Saturday's game vs. St. Louis at Citizens Bank Park.

It's been a season of uncertainty for Cliff Lee. Would the beloved lefty win a game in 2012? Lee didn't until July 4.

Would Lee be dealt before the July trade deadline? There were rumors that GM Ruben Amaro was offering Lee, but a deal never happened.

Could Lee leave in August? Lee was placed on waivers and, according to ESPN's Jayson Stark, the Dodgers claimed him. Amaro pulled him back.

"A lot of guys are placed on waivers," Lee said. "I'm not sure why it's such a big deal about me [being placed on waivers]."

Lee, who was already traded once by the Phillies, has to wonder about his future. He can't be traded this season. Once a player is placed on waivers and pulled back, he stays with his team.

"You have to wonder what's going on in his head," a scout said. "Was coming back to the Phillies the right thing to do? "

The Phils owe Lee $87.5 million over the next three years. That breaks down to $29 million a season. Is Lee (2-6, 3.73 ERA) worth it? Lee has given up a whopping 18 home runs.

"If he pitches like the 2008 and 2009 version of Cliff Lee, I think he is worth it," the scout said. "But he's not getting any younger."

Lee, who will turn 34 Aug. 30, wants to remain in Philly.

"I love it here," Lee said. "I want to stay. I still think we have a chance to win here."

Plank looks to lead Soul to title over former team

Soul coach making fourth trip to ArenaBowl ◗ High-octane offense looks to give him first championship ◗ Philly back where it won in '08

Sometime between the probable end of the Phillies-Cards NLDS rematch and NBC's nightly medal countdown, the Soul will go for its own version of the gold Friday night in New Orleans. That's where they'll take on the Arizona Rattlers in ArenaBowl XXV, the very site where they claimed the 2008 title.

Due to the NFL Network's decision to air Tim Tebow's first preseason game with the Jets, the game won't start until 10:30 p.m.

For Soul coach Doug Plank, his time to win an ArenaBowl is long overdue. This will be his fourth trip to the "big game," the first three — 2002, 2003, 2004 — coming when he served as Arizona's defensive coordinator under former Cowboys quarterback Danny White.

ON TV FRIDAY

ArenaBowl XXV: Soul vs. Rattlers, 10:30 p.m. (NFLN)

But with an offense scoring at a track-meet pace —the Soul romped past Jacksonville 89-34 in last week's conference championship — Plank likes his chances. The team is led by quarterback Dan Raudabaugh (115 touchdown passes), running back Derrick Ross (37 TDs) and receivers Donovan Morgan, Jeff Hughley and Larry Brackins.

"This is the most talented team I have ever had the pleasure to work with," said Plank. "They're the most gifted athletes, so I feel good about going into this game with those guys.'"

Still, he knows all too well there are no guarantees. What the 59-year-old Plank didn't know was that living in Arizona and attending several Rattlers games might pay off a year later.

"When I lived in Arizona and went to all those games, I didn't realize I was scouting," laughed Plank, whose team has won 10 straight going back to mid-May. "Their quarterback [Nick Davila] makes good decisions. We'll have to be ready for anything."
